

conference

kids are really different these days ...pioneering an evolutionary world

Saturday, November 11th, 2006, 9am to 5.30pm In London, UK

The Energy Alliance, a group of energetically aware experts who work with children in brand new ways, is hosting this conference to provide a great look into questions of our time:

- Who are today's kids and how and why are they different?
- How can you connect with and help to fulfil their potential?
- How can you communicate brilliantly across age gap?
- What do kids have to do with consciousness and evolution?

Four experts from The Energy Alliance will provide an overview of just how kids really are different these days and how we can support them in becoming the next generation of leaders for our evolving world.

The day will include ■ four presentations from our experts ■ experiential mini-sessions ■ interactive full group forum with the audience ■ a video by and of our kids ■ an exhibition/networking area and ■ the book launch of 'Kids Are Really Different These Days' by The Energy Alliance collaborators.

It's a day not to missed if you're passionate around anything to do with our wonderful new kids and the evolutionary possibilities they're demonstrating!

Venue Columbia Hotel, Bayswater, London

Fee £95, including refreshments, excluding lunch

Registration To register for the conference visit www.theenergyalliance.com or contact Alan Wilson at alan@developyourchild.co.uk or by telephone at 01634 668400.
